REMINISCENCES OF CARDIGAN GAOL.

"Curdi," in his letter on the County Gaol, last week, alluded to a man named William, who was hung for sheep stealing. This reference was probably connected with a man known as William Jones, a farmer of 72 years ago, who was hung at the gaol on the 6th of October, in the year 1821, or 77 years ago, for the crime of horsebreaking and theft, and upon whose head the following verses were written and printed at the time.

Upon them (conewd laugher also returned thanks.

read the letter of the health of and also of his health (Mr. Williams). They had no sympathy with the mayor in and proved themselves to be traced their restoration of his health would be.

Then as to the deputy and Mr. Williams, he thought his health most enthusiastically or thanked Canon Jones for his mayor, and others, none of enough to respond.

or proposed the toast of The with the name of his very old and Canon, of "The Cardigan & who requested.

of the town was reported to and Dr. RN.

them the health of the Horses was drank most enthusiastically that of the Parish Council of by the mayor, and responded Cope, Capt. Jones, and others.

Firstly An American closed the SPORT (PELM).

"The Rev. T. Evans."—On the 2nd instant, a farewell at the Ebenezer Chapel to Dr. Evans, who is returning to from his missionary in India. Mr. Evans dives country about two years spent forty years in the India with great success.

after his return he travelled and some parts of England as a missionary. He is locally in English, and still and is a powerful and Having spent the past year of Hothamton Chapel, he that God calls to finish his labours there.

his career. He spent many in a sailor, and used to opportunities at the time.

He is now 72 years old, strong, able, and out very unpropitious on reason. Still a large number announced to in the town were shed.

however, took the chair, and of the meeting by reading, Mr. Morris said this was a the merits of Mr. Evans!— he knew him the more the who was something above preaching. He had wholly a sailor, and used to

"Curdi," in his letter on the County Gaol, last week, alluded to a man named William, who was hung for sheep stealing. This reference was probably connected with a man known as William Jones, a farmer 72 years ago, who was hung at the gaol on the 6th of October, in the year 1821, or 77 years ago, for the crime of horsebreaking and theft, and upon whose head the following verses were written and printed at the time.

"Curdi," in his letter on the County Gaol,
last week, alluded to a man named William,
who was hung for sheep stealing. This
reference was probably connected with a
man known as William Jones, a farmer 72 years ago, who was hung at the
gaol on the 6th of October, in the year 1821,
or 77 years ago, for the
crime of horsebreaking and theft, and upon
whose head the following verses were
written and printed at the time.

"Curdi," in his letter on the County Gaol,
last week, alluded to a man named William,
who was hung for sheep stealing. This
reference was probably connected with a
man known as William Jones, a farmer 72 years ago, who was hung at the
gaol on the 6th of October, in the year 1821,
or 77 years ago, for the
crime of horsebreaking and theft, and upon
whose head the following verses were
written and printed at the time.

"Curdi," in his letter on the County Gaol,
last week, alluded to a man named William,
who was hung for sheep stealing. This
reference was probably connected with a
man known as William Jones, a farmer 72 years ago, who was hung at the
gaol on the 6th of October, in the year 1821,
or 77 years ago, for the
crime of horsebreaking and theft, and upon
whose head the following verses were
written and printed at the time.

"Curdi," in his letter on the County Gaol,
last week, alluded to a man named William,
who was hung for sheep stealing. This
reference was probably connected with a
man known as William Jones, a farmer 72 years ago, who was hung at the
gaol on the 6th of October, in the year 1821,
or 77 years ago, for the
crime of horsebreaking and theft, and upon
whose head the following verses were
written and printed at the time.

"Curdi," in his letter on the County Gaol,
last week, alluded to a man named William,
who was hung for sheep stealing. This
reference was probably connected with a
man known as William Jones, a farmer 72 years ago, who was hung at the
gaol on the 6th of October, in the year 1821,
or 77 years ago, for the
crime of horsebreaking and theft, and upon
whose head the following verses were
written and printed at the time.

"Curdi," in his letter on the County Gaol,
last week, alluded to a man named William,
who was hung for sheep stealing. This
reference was probably connected with a
man known as William Jones, a farmer 72 years ago, who was hung at the
gaol on the 6th of October, in the year 1821,
or 77 years ago, for the
crime of horsebreaking and theft, and upon
whose head the following verses were
written and printed at the time.

"Curdi," in his letter on the County Gaol,
last week, alluded to a man named William,
who was hung for sheep stealing. This
reference was probably connected with a
man known as William Jones, a farmer
72 years ago, who was hung at the
gaol on the 6th of October, in the year 1821,
or 77 years ago, for the
crime of horsebreaking and theft, and upon
whose head the following verses were
written and printed at the time.