Police re-enact armed robbery

It is hoped by the police that when the re-enactment is shown it will help to focus possible witnesses’ minds in the hope of getting more information from any possible witnesses.

A police spokesman said: "We would just ask people to cast their minds back and would encourage anybody who may know anything to contact us.

The police feel that there are a number of people in the surrounding area who must have seen the car and would be able to speak to anyone who thinks they did see the dark-coloured car.

The spokesman said: "This car didn’t just appear in Tregaron. Somebody has seen this vehicle and we need them to tell us about it.

"We need the people of Ceredigion to be our eyes and ears, to give us the information and we will solve it.'"

Delyth Williams, the owner of Caron Stores, also appealed for any witnesses to contact the police to ensure the robbers don’t get the chance to rob another shop.

He said: "I could happen again, so it wouldn’t be the fact that they would come back to the same area, but it could happen again to someone else, somewhere else."

It is thought that the two robbers had been in Tregaron for some time and that they had checked around the town at several different shops before deciding on Caron Stores.

Shopkeeper Mr Williams told the Cambrian News: "They had been around Tregaron during the day checking out the shops and I think because we were quiet they just decided on our shop."
