Killing: Poster drive to trace Gambrell

By PETER ROBERTS

The head of Dyfed-Powys CID, Chief-superintendent Pat Molloy, who is leading the hunt for the killer, said yesterday, “This poster is going out nationwide to every police force and will be prominently displayed on their notice boards.

“We would appeal to the public to have a good look at the poster at their police station.”

He said, “We’re fairly satisfied that Mr Gambrell is not in this district at the moment in view of the fact he has not been seen in the past 10 days in the Dyfed-Powys force area. However, we are not relaxing our vigilance and we are ready to react swiftly to the slightest sign that he is back here.

The posters appeal to the public that if they do see Gambrell they should tell the police at once, and not approach him themselves.

His full description on the poster says he was born in Kent, is 6ft tall, of thin build, with dark brown wispy hair, tinged with ginger, nicotine-stained teeth, long bony fingers, also nicotine-stained, with casual clothing like jeans, heavy pullover and anorak and often carries a rucksack.

He was last seen wearing a shiny yellow plastic waterproof jacket reversible to blue.

POSTERS with a detailed description and photographs of the man Dyfed-Powys Police are anxious to question over the killing of a 61-year-old sheep farmer, were distributed yesterday to all forces in the country.

More than 5,000 posters, printed at Dyfed-Powys Police HQ in Carmarthen, state that Mr Richard Anthony Gambrell, aged 33, is wanted for questioning following the shooting on January 33 of Mr John Hughes Williams, of Brynamnor, Llanddewi Brefi, near Tregaron.

The posters include two photographs of Gambrell, one with a beard and one without.
